

FOUR DEATHS ON THE MOUNTAIN RESORT TO FIFTY-FIVE CREWS ON LINE OF S. P. BE ESTABLISHED RAILROAD NEAR BRIGHAM SALT LAKE DIVISION

Four men, two trespassers and two section laborers, met violent deaths at different points on the Salt Lake division of the Southern Pacific railroad during the past four days, according to reports received and tabulated at the office of Division Clerk Johnson in Ogden.

The first death reported was that of Juan Ramos, a Mexican, on July 16, at Natchez. He was shot by E. Picchi, a fellow countryman, in a fight which marked the climax of a drunken carousel of Mexican section hands. It is alleged that Ramos started the fight by wielding a razor on Picchi.

Near Bango, on the M. & C. branch, Monday night, Jim Kelly, a section hand was struck by train No. 24 and instantly killed. According to the investigation of the accident, Kelly had been on a spree and left the section house on a motor car to go to Bango for some more liquor. He had evidently left the car to walk into the station, taking the middle of the railroad track as a pathway and was not seen by the engine crew until too late to avoid a tragedy. This accident happened about 11:30 p. m.

Train No. 19 was making its way toward Halleck, Nev., on the same day when, within a few miles of the town, an unknown man was seen by the engine crew to walk out of the tall weeds at the side of the right-of-way and onto the track. The engine was rounding a curve about 150 feet away from the trespasser when he was seen, at the rate of 35 miles an hour. Whether the man was deaf was not known, but he paid no attention to the engine whistle and had his back to the train when it struck him. When picked up by the train crew, it was found that his head had been virtually cut in twain and one of his legs broken.

Last night, at Wolsey, 30 miles west of Imlay, the dead body of an unknown man was found at the side of the track, by the crew of train No. 5. It is supposed that he was struck by another train, the previous night but, as no report of an accident was made, it is thought that the accident was not known by the crew of the train that struck him.

Brigham City, July 20.—Plans are under way by the management of the Maple Springs Trout company to organize a club with a membership of three hundred to take over the holdings of the company and establishing a modern mountain resort near Mantua. The company is operating a fish hatchery south of Mantua, and during the last few years the place has become very popular on account of the excellent trout produced and every Sunday many prominent men of the state visit the hatchery for trout dinner. It is through this popularity that the officials have decided to change from a private corporation to a club, and it is proposed to limit the membership to 300 and allow each man one share.

Among the improvements contemplated are the erection of a modern club house fully equipped, a dancing pavilion and rearranging the grounds to accommodate a large number of campers each summer. Already many prominent men of Ogden, Salt Lake and this city have applied for membership, and everything points to the successful launching of the proposition.

INDIAN BATTLE FOUGHT IN OGDEN VALLEY IN 1863
again. They wanted chickens, pigs and calves. Some of these things were given up.

"We had hoped that soldiers would be sent to protect us but instead Bishop Chauncey West of Ogden sent up six wagon loads of provisions and some six head of cattle as a present to the Indians. At once there was a change. The Indians killed the cattle and had a great feast. After that they were very quiet and friendly.

"That was the favorite method of the pioneers in dealing with the Indians. It was found to be cheaper to feed them than to fight them."

Went Back to Huntsville.
Mrs. Jessop was born in Ogden, in Bingham's Fort, near Five Points. Last year she visited Huntsville for the first time in years. She rode into the little Ogden Valley town in an interurban car on the new electric road and says she found little difficulty in identifying old locations, including the scene of the Indian fight.

The movement of the annual crop of cantaloupes and watermelons from the San Joaquin valley has now begun, Mr. Smith stated this morning, and it is expected that 3000 cars of the fruit will be shipped east, over the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads before the season is over.

Now being a permanent resident of Ogden, Mr. Smith brought his automobile back with him from Sparks and last night drove it for the first time through Ogden canyon. This ride, he declares was "great."

CHINAMEN CHARGED WITH GAMBLING FORFEIT BAIL
Tom Yuen and Joe Lee, Chinese, were arrested last night at 2462 Lincoln avenue and 2459 Grant avenue, respectively, by Sergeants Peterson and Kellher and Detective Syphers on charges of gambling. They were released on payment of $250 bail each and the bail was forfeited in police court this morning.

At the same session of court, Charles Flaner, an alleged drunk, forfeited $5 and Carl Nordquist, found guilty of drunkenness was sentenced to serve five days in jail. Five other drunks were given suspended sentences.

WOMAN WRONGED
Simon Baird wronged a woman, stole a man's fortune, lashed a servant with a mule whip. Twenty years later, he came to buy an invention, and dined and slept in the house with these three people. During the night, he was murdered. The next day the young inventor had a torn and pasted $1000 bill which was in Baird's possession the previous day. Who killed Simon Baird? That is the plot of "By Whose Hand?" in which Edna Wallace Hopper, Charles J. Ross and Muriel Ostliche appear. It is an Equitable feature, in which the fate of the man accused of murder is left in the hands of the audience. Be sure to attend the performance of "By Whose Hand?" at the Utah theatre today and tomorrow, and cast your ballot either for or against the accused.—Advertisement.
